

INSTITUTE'S HONORS WON

Bright Young Broadwinners
Achieve New Glory.

AN INSPIRING ADDRESS

Dr. Charles W. Kent, of the University,
Inspires His Large Audience—Principal
Burgwyn Announces the Successful Students.

The Mechanics' Institute closed a session of splendid achievement last night with exercises inspiring and most appropriate to the occasion.

A very large audience was in attendance, filling the auditorium of the handsome building. On the platform were those who had been assigned parts in the interesting programme, the officers and members of the Board of Trustees, and Principal C. P. E. Burgwyn. President W. J. Whitehurst presided.

The exercises began at 8:30 o'clock with music by the orchestra. Introductory remarks were made by President Whitehurst, who took occasion to speak of the work of the institute in a general way. He concluded after presenting Mr. Wyndham R. Meredith, who was to introduce the orator of the evening, Professor Charles W. Kent, of the University of Virginia, and a member of the State Board of Education.

Mr. Meredith performed the task assigned him in a most felicitous and graceful manner. He and Professor Kent were at the university together, and have been warm friends in the intervening years. The address of Professor Kent was regarded by all who heard it as one of the ablest and most inspiring which had ever listened to. He was warmly applauded at intervals, and those on the platform grasped his hand warmly in congratulation when he had concluded.

NEURO IN THE FOREGROUND.
In the outset Dr. Kent spoke of the great Education Conference recently held in Richmond, contrasting it unfavorably to the latter with that held at Capon Springs. Concerning this he said:

"The figure prominent in the foreground in all these Capon Springs discussions was the negro. The time and thought given to him seemed in our estimates of proportion to suggest that his education had been matter of far more import and significance than the education of the white youth. I do not say that such a lesson was intentionally taught, but that such conclusions from the conference of the faithful few might have been reached. One of the things which may be noted, in that conference, southern speakers showed themselves well informed as to northern problems and their attempted solutions, while many of the northern speakers were deborably and, in fact, ignorant of the South's educational history, its present problems, and its essential conditions.

"So much by way of contrast, for it must be apparent that in the recent discussions in Richmond there was rich information, much clearness of vision, childlike willingness to learn, and a total disinclination to speak of these matters with that cocksure self-assertion of the priest to the unconverted. Nor did the education limit itself to the negro, the theme at that time was the child of whatever color, and his education of whatever kind. There were present men of distinct views ready to expound them, but the professional faddist, knowing nothing but his fad, was fortunately absent, and the doctrinaires with their whimsical notions and new-fangled methods destined to revolutionize the world in their short lifetimes, were safely silent."

PHASES OF EDUCATION.
The speaker then took up education under the various heads of education for commerce and education for citizenship. In the latter connection, he said:

"As Milton long ago put it, 'I call a complete and generous education that which fits a man to perform justly, skillfully, and magnanimously all the offices, both private and public, of peace and war.'"

"But civic duties are not so high or imperative as the duty of reverence for God, and it is his duty to be a good citizen is to have a clear and strong conception of the high claims of morality and religion upon our better natures. In politics we lend willing attention to Jefferson's dicta; hence this with reference to education: 'The relations which exist between man and his Maker, and the duties arising from these relations, are the most interesting and important to every human being, and the most incumbent on his study and investigation.'"

STAND FOUR-SQUARE.
In closing his splendid address, Dr. Kent said:

"Make yourself indispensable and you will not be to know. Fill your present circle until you press against the bounding periphery, and then you will burst through into new and larger circles. Do your best now and a better best will follow. The world awaits you, and you must not withhold its honors from the faithful, fervent life. Young men, bravery men of muscle, brainy men of mind, mighty men of morals, men of quenchless spirit, train hand and head and heart and soul, that you may stand four-square to opposition, and in four-fold equipment go forth to valiant duties for your day and land."

HONORS AND MEDALS.

Principal C. P. E. Burgwyn made a most interesting announcement of those who had been adjudged worthy of the honors of the institute:

TESTS WERE SATISFACTORY

Guns and Decks of Monitor Nevada Stood Rigid Test Well.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—At the Navy Department today the substance of the report on the recent tests of the guns aboard the monitor Nevada was made public. That the department might reassure itself regarding the security of the new monitors, the guns of the Nevada were sent on a cruise off Cape Henry some days ago to have their guns subjected to a rigid test. Her twelve-inch guns each were fired ten times, several of the rounds being together. The report shows that neither the mounts nor the guns developed weakness, and that both the big and small guns worked admirably. It is stated that the tests of the Nevada's guns were very severe. The result is considered gratifying by the department.

AN ARMY OF MEN WORKING AT PARK

Busy Preparations for the Chimborazo Hospital Benefit.

A small army of electricians and workmen will be engaged to-day planting poles, stringing wires, etc., looking to the installation of the many electric lights that will illuminate the May Festival at Broad Street Park all next week.

The force of men is in charge of W. T. LaRue, master of construction and chief electrician of the General Amusement Company of Cincinnati, O., who arrived in the city last Monday.

When the work is completed the park at night will resemble a veritable fairyland with its hundreds of vari-colored arc and smaller electric lamps.

The officials of the Chimborazo Hospital, for the benefit of which the monster festival will be held, are sparing neither pains nor expense to make the coming exposition one of the most brilliant in the history of Richmond.

A class of shows never before seen in the South will be brought here on a special train of twenty-six cars. This train will arrive in the city next Sunday, and the local management is offering a price of a season ticket to the festival to the person who guesses nearest to the exact time of the train's arrival. All guesses should be addressed to G. O. Litt, chief of publicity, and mailed to No. 15 South Eighth Street.

The exposition feature of the festival promises much, as many local and out-of-town firms have engaged space and will erect substantial and attractive booths on the grounds. The music will also be a feature of the show, as the Cincinnati Festival Orchestra, numbering twenty high-class musicians, will be brought here to play next Sunday, and will give open-air concerts on the grounds twice daily. All of the fourteen high-class exposition attractions will be installed on the grounds for the opening performance, which will occur next Monday afternoon. The festival will continue throughout the entire week, and two performances will be given each day.

ROMANTIC MARRIAGE

Illness of the Bride Brings to Light a Long-Kept Secret.

A little romance was brought to light yesterday, when the parents of Mr. Lewis Meyers and Mrs. Pearl Stanton were apprised of the fact of the marriage of the young folks. The couple left Richmond on February 14th for a trip to Washington. They went to Rockville, Md., and were married. The marriage was kept secret until yesterday, when the illness of Mrs. Meyers brought the secret out. Then it was that Mr. Meyers declared that the marriage had taken place. Mrs. Meyers is the charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Denel, the latter the stage manager of the Bijou Theatre. The young lady was married several months ago to John Stanton, of California. The ceremony was performed while Mr. Stanton was very ill. He never recovered, and left his bride a widow. She came here about a year ago and is now in the city. A strong attachment sprang up between them, which culminated in their marriage. For fear of parental objection the marriage was kept secret.

Mr. Meyers is the son of the late Mason B. Meyers, and a brother of Mr. Barney Meyers, the well-known tailor. Parental objections have been waived, and when Mrs. Meyers recovers she will go to the home of her husband, and the friends of both will be invited to call.
